Mrs. Adams 1st to Span Pacific

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Sharon Sites Adams piloted her 31-foot ketch into San Diego Harbor at 9:02 a.m. today, the first woman to sail across the Pacific Ocean alone.

The slender, 39-year-old California housewife traveled 6,000 miles from Yokohama, Japan. During the 74-day journey, her tiny boat was tossed by seven gales and 20-foot waves.

A boat piloted by her husband, Al Adams, accompanied her past Ballast Point at the tip of Point Loma and into the harbor. After a 2½-mile ride to Shelter Island, a welcome by hundreds awaited her.

The pink sails of her boat fluttered in soft breezes as Mrs. Adams ended the long, lonely trip during which she was out of contact for weeks at a time. Her husband met her father up the California coast several days ago and accompanied her. Her husband met her farther up the California coast several days ago and accompanied her boat, Sea Sharp II, to the landing in San Diego.

At one point, he said, her boat was battered for five straight days by a violent storm. She weathered 20-foot waves and high winds and last Wednesday finally got to sleep after three days.

Her normal weight is 108 pounds but she appeared to have lost 15 pounds, Adams said. Adams, aboard the Alkali, sighted his wife early Tuesday and has kept his eyes on her boat since.

ing of about $8 billion a year. The Defense Department's civilian force also is a likely target for more trimming beneath the level of 1,215,000 now planned for the coming year.

The Nixon administration in April moved to lop 20,000 civilian workers from the payroll at an anticipated annual saving of about $70 million. That cut probably will be deepened.

Officials hinted that, if the level of fighting stays low, they may be able to trim the more than $4 billion in the budget for ground, air and naval ammunition.

Shortly after coming to office, the Nixon administration sliced more than $900 million from the Johnson administration's ammunition request.

The number of B52 sorties is due to slide from about 1,800 to about 1,600 a month, and a continued lull could bring an additional cut of German-U.S. development of a main battle tank for the 1970's, a new F14 fighter plane for the Navy and another nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

The Nixon administration has achieved part of the $1.7 billion budget saving so far by canceling the Air Force's manned orbiting laboratory and a contract for producing a new Cheyenne helicopter for the Army.

basement they found dismantled pieces of a motor bike similar to Kee's son's. Some parts were missing, presumably already fenced. Gray paint had recently been sprayed on a fender but traces of blue showed underneath. The son's bike had had blue fenders.

The police told Kee to come down to the station house later to make charges and then left. One of the boys approached Kee. He said Kee had better not press charges if he didn't want something to happen to his son. Then the apartment superintendent took Kee aside and said if he would drop the matter, he would see that the bike was reassembled and returned.

Kee left. But he didn't go immediately to the station house. He was troubled. If he signed a complaint, the boys would know his name. And where he lived. His son often played around the neighborhood. And he walked alone, sometimes, to school. Kee also didn't get home from work until 10 p.m. or later.

He figured if he signed the complaint, he would have to move.

It wasn't a matter of losing the bike. He could always buy another. It was a matter of protecting his family.

The son thought differently and said so. To him it was a matter of principle. He had fought for his bike. He had put aside his fear and followed his attackers. He had confronted them. And now was his father, of all people, going to back down? Was his very father going to be a coward?

But his father had made up his mind.

He went to the station house and told the police to drop the case. The detectives argued. If people like Kee weren't going to act against crime, how were the police to do their jobs?

But Kee was adamant. It was his son, not theirs, after all. But he was in anguish. He still is.

His son looks at him differently now. They don't talk as easily as they once did. Kee understands, and it agonizes him. "But what can you do?" he said. "How do you explain to an 11-year-old?"

He looked at his listener and raised his palms as if in supplication. There was no answer.

New Spurt of Fighting at Suez

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel and Egypt followed up one of the biggest Middle East battles since 1967 with a new spurt of fighting along the Suez Canal today.

An Israeli army spokesman in Tel Aviv said Egyptian forces opened fire chiefly along the southern end of the waterway and the Israelis returned it. He said an Israeli soldier was slightly wounded.

At the same time both sides swapped claims and denials after Thursday's day-long air and ground fighting—the third big battle of the week in the canal area. And Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel called upon the Arabs to respect the cease-fire agreement that ended the fighting in the six-day war of June 1967.

An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman told newsmen Israel's aim is the renewal of the cease-fire "on a mutual basis" along the canal.

the prosecution could subpoena participants in the pre-accident party to testify. Kennedy would be sentenced without a full trial if he pleaded guilty or no contest.

The senator originally asked for a show-cause hearing, and it had been scheduled for next Monday. But late Thursday, his attorneys said Kennedy would waive that proceeding and instead move directly to an arraignment.

As the senator went before the court, questions remained.

Could Kennedy, whose 37 summers have been spent on Cape Cod and neighboring Martha's Vineyard, have been so unfamiliar with Chappaquiddick that he left is only paved road, leading to the Edgartown ferry, for a bumpy, unlighted road leading instead to a dark and dangerous bridge with no railing?

Could he have driven six-tenths of a mile down that road without realizing that he and his passenger were off course?

And how did he spend nine hours, during which he claimed he was in state of shock, before reporting the accident to Edgartown's police?

Investigating these and other questions, The Associated Press has learned:

—A college student working on Chappaquiddick Island says he saw Kennedy earlier Friday riding in the black car from the ferry along the paved road that leads to the summer cottage Kennedy's cousin had rented for a party. He believes he saw Kennedy make the drive later, alone, after sailing in the Edgartown Yacht Club Regatta.

—A regular summer resident of Chappaquiddick says Kennedy was a frequent visitor to the island in summers past.

—An Edgartown policeman says all the Kennedy brothers knew the entire area well.

—A driver traveling from the cottage to the ferry—even in broad daylight—must sharply reduce speed at the T-like intersection for a 90-degree turn, either to the left or to the right. A left turn keeps the driver on the paved road and takes him to the Edgartown ferry. To the right, he immediately leaves the pavement and enters the dirt road leading to the narrow wooden bridge from which the 1966 Oldsmobile plunged into dark, swift running tidal waters.

—A reflector sign before the junction guides the driver to the left along the main road. The dirt road is unmarked.

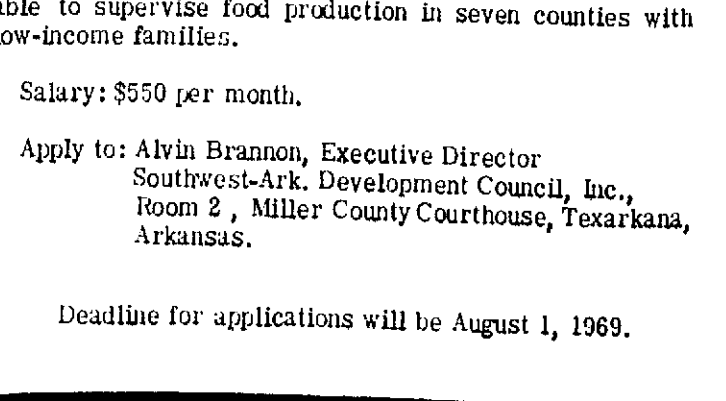

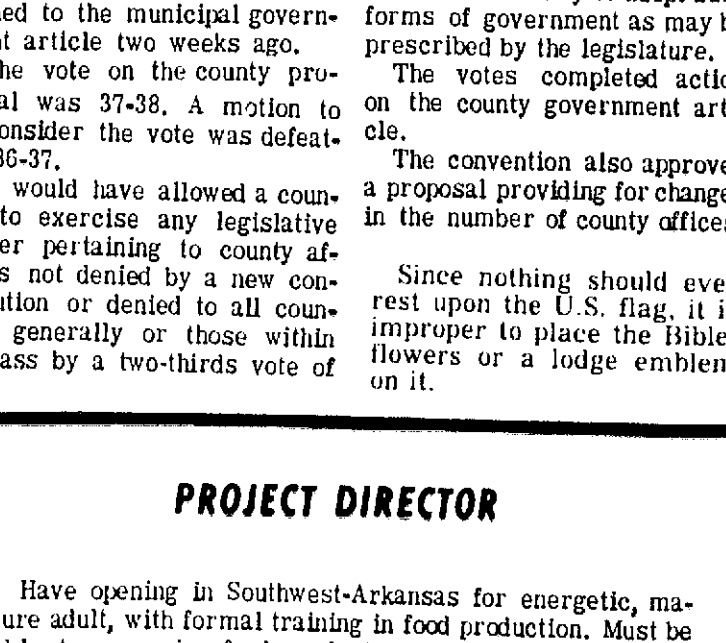

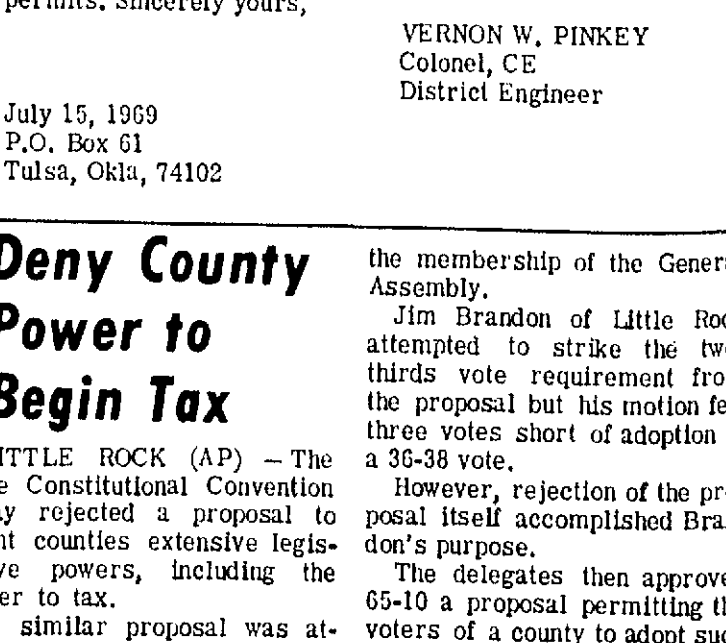

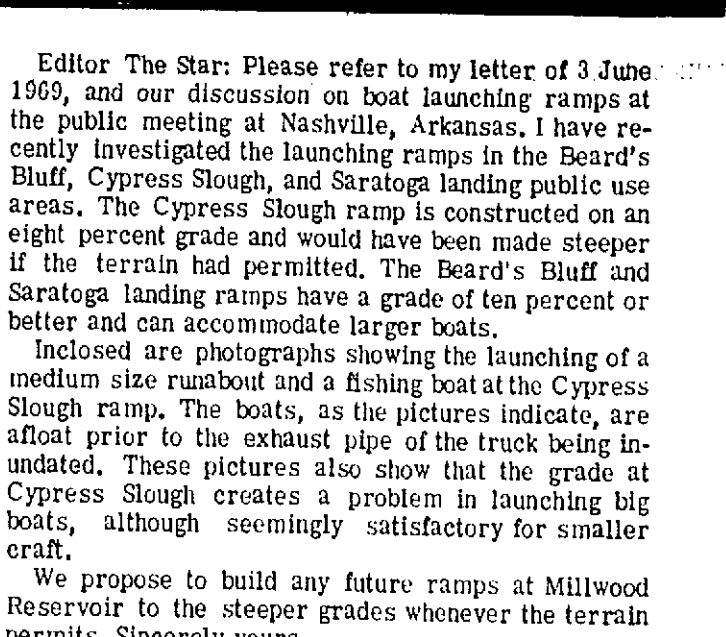

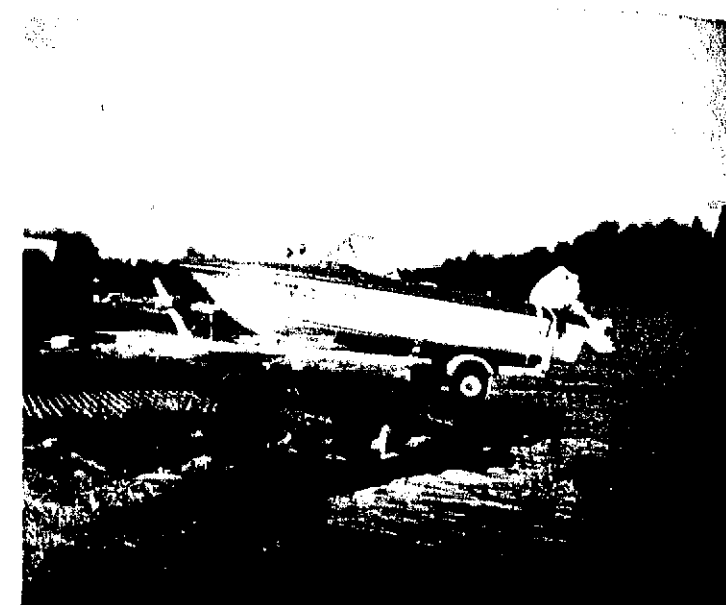

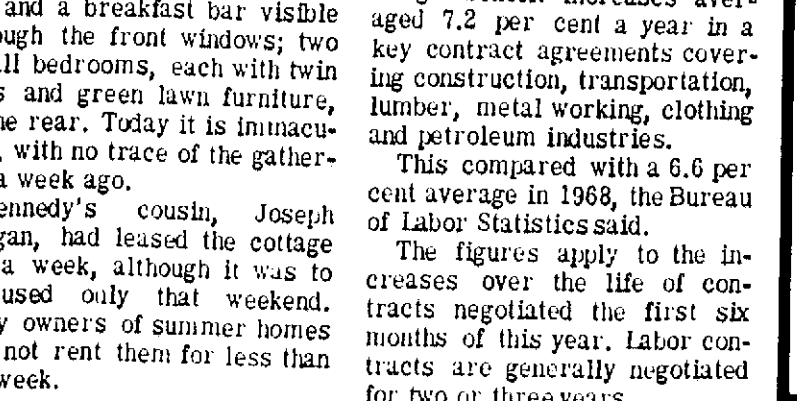

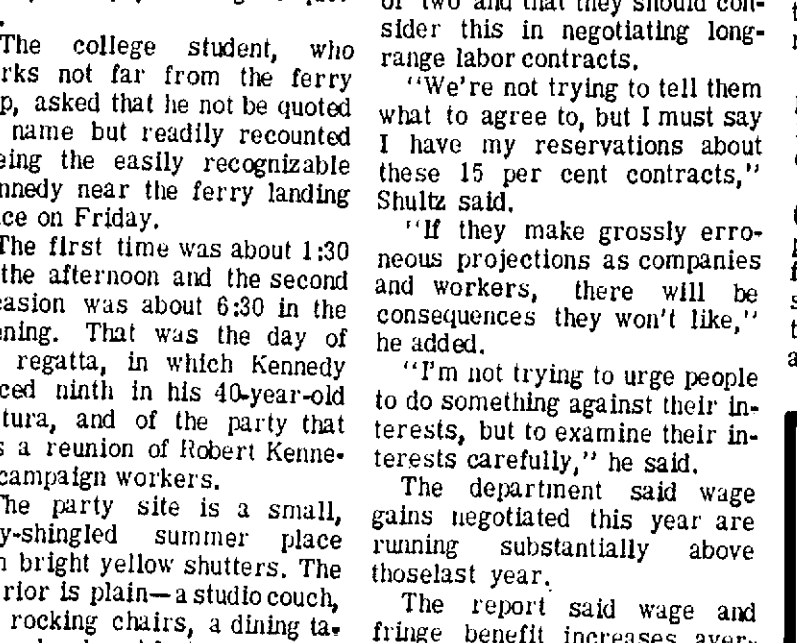

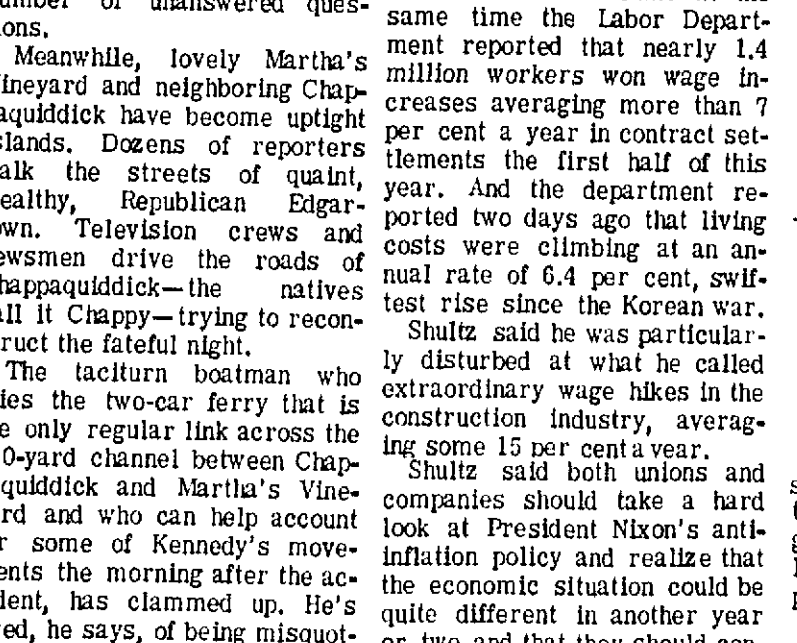

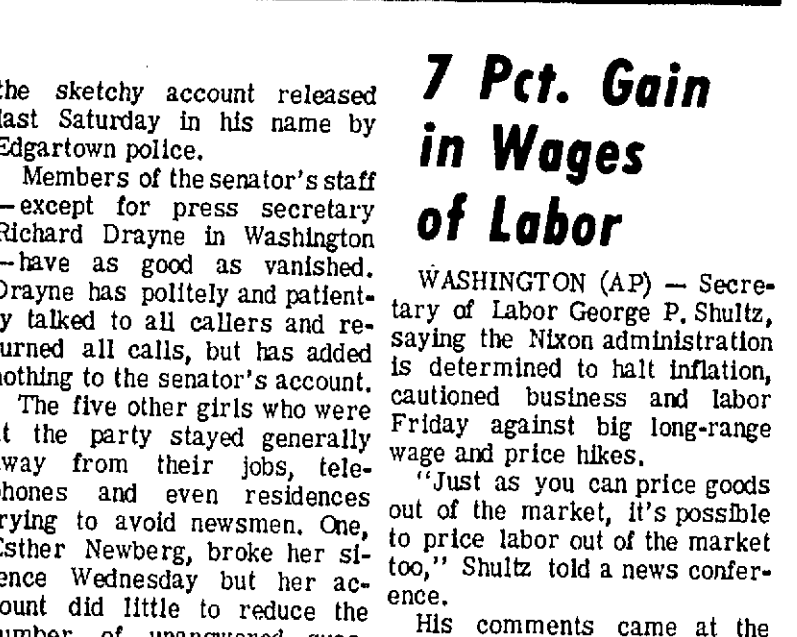

—Kennedy said he was driving only 20 miles an hour, and there was no indication of high speed at the bridge. None was needed. A drive over the hump-backed structure shows that it is treacherous even in daylight at a very low speed.

But the only living witness to the accident that took the life of the young secretary who was a Robert F. Kennedy campaign worker is Edward Moore Kennedy. Except for the day of the victim's funeral, the senator has been in total seclusion with his wife and friends in his summer home on Squaw Island near the famous Kennedy family compound at Hyannis Port. The approach roads are blocked by Hyannis police.

Only such trusted advisers as brother-in-law Stephen Smith, former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, ex-White House aide Theodore Sorensen, attorney Burke Marshall and Reps. John Tunney of California and John Culver of Iowa were allowed in.

Kennedy has made no significant public statement beyond

7 Pct. Gain in Wages of Labor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz, saying the Nixon administration is determined to halt inflation, cautioned business and labor Friday against big long-range wage and price hikes.

"Just as you can price goods out of the market, it's possible to price labor out of the market too," Shultz told a news conference.

His comments came at the same time the Labor Department reported that nearly 1.4 million workers won wage increases averaging more than 7 per cent a year in contract settlements the first half of this year. And the department reported two days ago that living costs were climbing at an annual rate of 6.4 per cent, swiftest rise since the Korean war.

Shultz said he was particularly disturbed at what he called extraordinary wage hikes in the construction industry, averaging some 15 per cent a year.

Shultz said both unions and companies should take a hard look at President Nixon's anti-inflation policy and realize that the economic situation could be quite different in another year or two and that they should consider this in negotiating long-range labor contracts.

"We're not trying to tell them what to agree to, but I must say I have my reservations about these 15 per cent contracts," Shultz said.

"If they make grossly erroneous projections as companies and workers, there will be consequences they won't like," he added.

"I'm not trying to urge people to do something against their interests, but to examine their interests carefully," he said.

The department said wage gains negotiated this year are running substantially above those of last year.

The report said wage and fringe benefit increases averaged 7.2 per cent a year in a key contract agreements covering construction, transportation, lumber, metal working, clothing and petroleum industries.

This compared with a 6.6 per cent average in 1968, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The figures apply to the increases over the life of contracts negotiated the first six months of this year. Labor contracts are generally negotiated for two or three years.

Editor The Star: Please refer to my letter of 3 June 1969, and our discussion on boat launching ramps at the public meeting at Nashville, Arkansas. I have recently investigated the launching ramps in the Beard's Bluff, Cypress Slough, and Saratoga landing public use areas. The Cypress Slough ramp is constructed on an eight percent grade and would have been made steeper if the terrain had permitted. The Beard's Bluff and Saratoga landing ramps have a grade of ten percent or better and can accommodate larger boats.

Enclosed are photographs showing the launching of a medium size runabout and a fishing boat at the Cypress Slough ramp. The boats, as the pictures indicate, are afloat prior to the exhaust pipe of the truck being inundated. These pictures also show that the grade at Cypress Slough creates a problem in launching big boats, although seemingly satisfactory for smaller craft.

We propose to build any future ramps at Millwood Reservoir to the steeper grades whenever the terrain permits. Sincerely yours,

Deny County Power to Begin Tax

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The

state Constitutional Convention today rejected a proposal to grant counties extensive legislative powers, including the power to tax.

A similar proposal was attached to the municipal government article two weeks ago.

The vote on the county proposal was 37-38. A motion to reconsider the vote was defeated 36-37.

It would have allowed a county to exercise any legislative power pertaining to county affairs not denied by a new constitution or denied to all counties generally or those within a class by a two-thirds vote of the membership of the General Assembly.

Jim Brandon of Little Rock attempted to strike the two-thirds vote requirement from the proposal but his motion fell three votes short of adoption in a 36-38 vote.

However, rejection of the proposal itself accomplished Brandon's purpose.

The delegates then approved 65-10 a proposal permitting the voters of a county to adopt such forms of government as may be prescribed by the legislature.

The votes completed action on the county government article.

The convention also approved a proposal providing for changes in the number of county officers.

Since nothing should ever rest upon the U.S. flag, it is improper to place the Bible, flowers or a lodge emblem on it.

"DOES THE SERVICE MAKE A MAN OUT OF A BOY?" YES, SAY READERS.

Dear Helen: As a veteran of two wars, I can say, Yes, the military DOES make men out of boys, but it has to have something to work with. I have seen spineless fellows who remain spineless, but I have also seen boys shape up under discipline and training.

War is Hell, and that is why it takes men to fight. As long as we have war, our Services will continue to make men out of boys. —CHARLES S.

Dear Helen: I spent four years in the Service and I think it makes men out of boys. I agree with the girl who was against the military in that some of the things they hand you seem senseless, but they do it so that you will obey an order out in the fighting zone, where you must respond to commands without hesitation.

Respecting authority and supervision is something we all have to learn. Sure, the Army insists on obedience, but shouldn't parents and school officials — and police — also? —YOUNG VETERAN

Dear Helen: Saying "Yes sir" and "No sir" has never hurt me or anyone I know. Only the ones who refuse to do their part in the Service get busted. If they can't make it in the military, I pity them in civilian life, where it's really hard. —DAVE D.

Dear Helen: Before my guy went in the Army, he was quite a mama's boy. When he came home on leave, he was a different fellow. He grew up. —ENGAGED TO A MAN NOW.

Dear Helen: I read the letter from C.B. concerning the Army's ability (inability?) to build men. Here in Vietnam, there is no room for a boy. All the foolish "games" of basic training suddenly take on a new meaning and become a sometimes horrifying reality.

Our own society's present condition is evidence enough that discipline is a necessity. Freedom without discipline soon becomes chaos. Let's face it, one man's freedom is another man's restrictive regulations. . . perhaps sometimes his very life!

Yes, the army builds more men than burning draft cards will ever suppress. —SGT. MIKE

L. APO, SAN FRANCISCO

Dear Helen: When I went into the Service five years ago, my father said "The Army will make a man of you." But Helen, death is not a basis on which to judge manhood. I felt less like a man when I got out. I guess I felt more like a dog. —B.C.

Dear Helen: I would like to completely refute any view that "the Service makes a man out of a boy." I served in the Army and became the man that society deemed I was to be. However, Service was irrelevant to my new-found manhood.

It was not my training that made a man out of me, but my emotions that were aroused by man's inhumanity to man. I learned how to kill my fellowman, saw trainees die from over-exhaustion and men beaten for mere infractions of the rules.

I discarded this period of indoctrination to machine morality and came out a MAN. But I regret that I serve an institution that makes good boys into "good killers." If this is society's definition of a man, God help us all! —A READER

NOTE TO READERS: Votes are now running three to one in favor of the Armed Services. Amazingly, most of the favorable letters are written by young people! —H.

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — There has never been a television show like it: from Cape Kennedy, outer space, the moon and the Pacific where the Apollo 11 astronauts landed safely.

Man was unleashed from his planet and practically the whole world was witness.

"Our minds are staggered and our spirits exalted," said Navy Chaplain Lt. Cmdr. John A. Pflinto in ceremonies aboard the recovery ship Hornet.

Surely, it will be a long time before we ever again see anything as thrilling, as moving and as significant.

The networks wound up their coverage of the eight-day voyage Thursday with live pictures by satellite from the Hornet.

Darkness and heavy cloud cover prevented us from seeing the capsule coming down, but the sight of the astronauts coming aboard and talking with President Nixon from the mobile isolation facility was a fitting climax.

The coverage by ABC, CBS and NBC was superb. In a lesson learned from other flights, the commentators usually kept quiet so we could hear the words from the astronauts and The Manned Spacecraft Center.

Over-all, CBS showed more imagination, more resourcefulness, and Walter Cronkite and retired astronaut Walter M. Schirra added a personal touch lacking at the other networks.

CBS' superior coverage fell down slightly during the splash-down, however, because of repeated interruptions for commercials. NBC, on the other hand, stayed with the story continuously until the astronauts were safely aboard the hornet.

Additional live coverage is planned when the astronauts arrive in Hawaii for transfer to a plane for the flight to Houston sometime Saturday. The first color film which will be released in Houston by NASA Monday afternoon and the networks will broadcast the pictures as they become available.

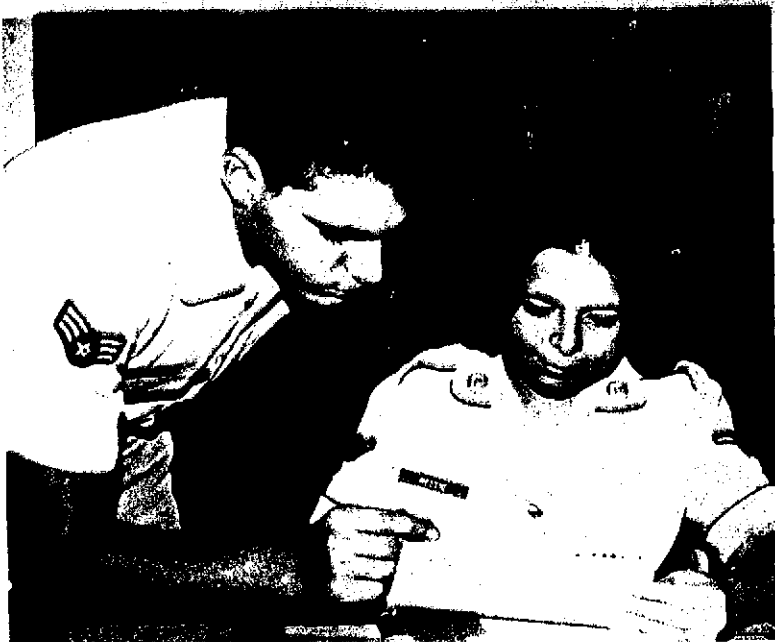

Pictures of Mars from Mariner 6, launched Feb. 24, will be broadcast beginning at about 9:30 p.m. EDT next Tuesday. Still photographs of the surface of Mars from a distance of between 6,000 and 2,000 miles will be relayed 60 million miles to a 210-foot dish antenna at Goldstone, Calif., then to the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at Pasadena, Calif.

The live pictures from the Hornet traveled a distance one-fifth of the way to the moon to get from the Pacific to New York, 6,000 miles away. The 500,000 mile journey took a quarter of a second.

The pictures were beamed from a 15-foot portable antenna aboard the ship to a satellite 22,240 miles over the Pacific, which relayed them to a Comsat satellite tracking station at Jamesburg, Calif. From there they went overland by wire to the television pool manned by ABC in New York.

The portable satellite transmitter, built by the General Electric space systems organization for Western Union, was first used for the splashdown of Apollo 7 last October. Cost of the satellite transmission is unknown, but Western Union lists the rate between Honolulu and San Francisco at $1,175 for the first 10 minutes.

Girl From Nevada Co. Air Force Traveler

JO MARGARET RETTIG

HICKAM AFB, Hawaii — Jo Margaret Rettig happiness is travelling and meeting new people. And judging from the 5,000 miles she's covered in the last eight months, this Air Force native of Nevada County, Arkansas, is happy.

Margaret is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Rettig, Route 2, Prescott, Ark. She is presently assigned as an administrative specialist to the 648th Air Base Wing, Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

The Air Force is a family matter with the Rettigs, and Margaret says that had a lot to do with her decision to join the Women in the Air Force (WAF). Brother Billy Joe was in the Army Air Corps and her sister, Sergeant Edith Ellen Rettig, is an administrative specialist at Plattsburg Air Force Base, N.Y.

"It's just something I've always wanted to do," Margaret says. "I enjoy meeting new people. In fact I loved basic training."

Margaret spent most of her life in Prescott, graduating from Prescott High School in June, 1966. That September she moved to Holyoke, Mass., and took a job as a secretary for National Transparent Plastics. In May, 1968, she journeyed to Spokane, Wash., and in November entered the Air Force.

About Hawaii she says, "I just love the beach. I love the atmosphere of Hawaii — the tropical surroundings." Her favorite off-duty pastimes include reading, water skiing, horseback riding, tennis and "watching football games." Margaret also enjoys taking in Honolulu's nightlife with a date.

Having enlisted in the Air Force at Spokane in November of 1968, Margaret was sent to basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. That six-week training was followed by specialized administrative training at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss. She was assigned to Hickam in March, 1969.

The future will include more travelling, if Margaret has her way. High on her list of places to visit is Alaska ("I'm dying to go to Alaska, and then I'll have been in just about all the 50 states.") and Spain ("I've always wanted to see Spain, I hear it's just beautiful, Europe too.")

For the immediate future the 21-year-old WAF wants to continue her education at the University of Hawaii.

Airman Rettig's duties as an administrative specialist include: assisting in the receipt, control and disposition of all incoming and outgoing messages at the Base Headquarters. Total messages each month is above 21,000. In addition, she instructs organizations in proper message preparation and management.

Margaret feels the Air Force has her in the right job. She says the work is very similar to the secretarial duties she had in civilian life. As for Air Force life, the proof is in the tasting, "I really love it — I wouldn't trade it for anything in the world," says Margaret.

HOMEMAKERS

To Stop Crying

When baby goes out in public, take along a plastic bag containing a cloth wrung out of thick soap or detergent suds. Then, when a favorite toy is tossed "overboard," it can be washed off and returned to the wee owner before the walls begin.

What Size Freezer?

How much freezer area should you figure on when buying a freezer? An average family that shops once a week can figure that they will need three to four cubic feet of freezer space per person.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

Associated Press Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — His voice is ready, lacking the muffled tone of Howard K. Smith.

Unlike the unflappable Chet Huntley, he reads the news with nervous hesitation. He has none of the wit of David Brinkley, the avuncular authority of Walter Cronkite, the sagacity of Eric Sevareid.

But when newscaster Tom Reddin addresses his television viewers on the gut issue of law and order, they detect his expertise. No wonder. Until 2½ months ago, he was chief of police of Los Angeles.

Big, bland, cheerful Tom Reddin quit the $32,820-a-year post as the city's head cop to become news anchor man for KTLA, owned by Gene Autry. Reddin's widely reported salary: $100,000, still unconfirmed by him.

The move was an obvious ploy to shore up ratings which slid when the channel's flamboyant, flag-pointing George Putnam went across the street to KTTV for a widely reported $300,000.

Autry's coup brought initial success as the KTLA newscast ratings climbed beyond Putnam's. As curiosity about Reddin has been fulfilled, the rating gap has narrowed. But the Autry people seem satisfied with the performance of their chief newscaster.

Reddin spoke earnestly in an interview about his new career. He talks in a friendly, open manner, somewhat as if he were addressing the Monterey Park Lions' Club.

"When I first started on this job," he said, "I sometimes wondered, 'What am I doing here? But as time went on, I became more accustomed to the new surroundings and I found how satisfying the work can be. Here I can have an impact. I can mold attitudes. I can make things happen. All that is possible when you're reaching a vast amount of people.'"

What he expected to be the hardest part of the job turned out to be the easiest, he said. That was doing interviews, working without a script and delivering his Special Reports, which usually cover matters of civic interest. — GORDA JAMES

"The toughest part was attempting to schedule myself within a closely structured framework," he added. "Making the words fit the length of a filmed segment, that sort of thing."

Reddin has taken strong stands against campus uprisings and other elements of unrest. He also voiced his feelings about gun control ("against registration but for greater penalties against illegal use"). In other areas he appears to have eschewed controversy. One of his nightly features is "The Goodness Story," illustrating good things in the community.

Mrs. Adams 1st to Span Pacific

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Sharon Sites Adams piloted her 31-foot ketch into San Diego Harbor at 9:02 a.m. today, the first woman to sail across the Pacific Ocean alone. The slender, 39-year-old California housewife traveled 6,000 miles from Yokohama, Japan. During the 74-day journey, her tiny boat was tossed by seven gales and 20-foot waves. A boat piloted by her husband, Al Adams, accompanied her past Ballast Point at the tip of Point Loma and into the harbor. After a 2½-mile ride to Shelter Island, a welcome by hundreds awaited her. The pink sails of her boat fluttered in soft breezes as Mrs. Adams ended the long, lonely trip during which she was out of contact for weeks at a time. Her husband met her father up the California coast several days ago and accompanied her. Her husband met her farther up the California coast several days ago and accompanied her boat, Sea Sharp II, to the landing in San Diego. At one point, he said, her boat was battered for five straight days by a violent storm. She weathered 20-foot waves and high winds and last Wednesday finally got to sleep after three days. Her normal weight is 108 pounds but she appeared to have lost 15 pounds, Adams said, Adams, aboard the Alkani, sighted his wife early Tuesday and has kept his eyes on her boat since. Amazonia is the world's largest jungle.

ing of about $8 billion a year. The Defense Department's civilian force also is a likely target for more trimming beneath the level of 1,215,000 now planned for the coming year. The Nixon administration in April moved to lop 20,000 civilian workers from the payroll at an anticipated annual saving of about $70 million. That cut probably will be deepened. Officials hinted that, if the level of fighting stays low, they may be able to trim the more than $4 billion in the budget for ground, air and naval ammunition. Shortly after coming to office, the Nixon administration sliced more than $900 million from the Johnson administration's ammunition request. The number of B52 sorties is due to slide from about 1,800 to about 1,600 a month, and a continued full could bring an additional oldest German-U.S. development of a main battle tank for the 1970's, a new F14 fighter plane for the Navy and another nuclear-powered aircraft carrier. The Nixon administration has achieved part of the $1.7 billion budget saving so far by canceling the Air Force's manned orbiting laboratory and a contract for producing a new Cheyenne helicopter for the ARMY.

basement they found dismantled pieces of a motor bike similar to Kee's son's. Some parts were missing, presumably already fenced. Gray paint had recently been sprayed on a fender but traces of blue showed underneath. The son's bike had had blue fenders. The police told Kee to come down to the station house later to make charges and then left. One of the boys approached Kee. He said Kee had better not press charges if he didn't want something to happen to his son. Then the apartment superintendent took Kee aside and said if he would drop the matter, he would see that the bike was reassembled and returned. Kee left. But he didn't go immediately to the station house. He was troubled. If he signed a complaint, the boys would know his name. And where he lived. His son often played around the neighborhood. And he walked alone, sometimes, to school. Kee also didn't get home from work until 10 p.m. or later. He figured if he signed the complaint, he would have to move.

It wasn't a matter of losing the bike. He could always buy another. It was a matter of protecting his family. The son thought differently and said so. To him it was a matter of principle. He had fought for his bike. He had put aside his fear and followed his attackers. He had confronted them. And now was his father, of all people, going to back down? Was his very father going to be a coward? But his father had made up his mind. He went to the station house and told the police to drop the case. The detectives argued. If people like Kee weren't going to act against crime, how were the police to do their jobs? But Kee was adamant. It was his son, not theirs, after all. But he was in anguish. He still is. His son looks at him differently now. They don't talk as easily as they once did. Kee understands, and it agonizes him. "But what can you do?" he said. "How do you explain to an 11-year-old?" He looked at his listener and raised his palms as if in supplication. There was no answer.

New Spurt of Fighting at Suez

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Israel and Egypt followed up one of the biggest Middle East battles since 1967 with a new spurt of fighting along the Suez Canal today. An Israeli army spokesman in Tel Aviv said Egyptian forces opened fire chiefly along the southern end of the waterway and the Israelis returned it. He said an Israeli soldier was slightly wounded. At the same time both sides swapped claims and denials after Thursday's day-long air and ground fighting—the third big battle of the week in the canal area. And Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel called upon the Arabs to respect the cease-fire agreement that ended the fighting in the six-day war of June 1967. An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman told newsmen Israel's aim is the renewal of the cease-fire "on a mutual basis" along the canal.

the prosecution could subpoena participants in the pre-accident party to testify. Kennedy would be sentenced without a full trial if he pleaded guilty or no contest. The enator originally asked for a show-cause hearing, and it had been scheduled for next Monday. But late Thursday, his attorneys said Kennedy would waive that proceeding and instead move directly to an arraignment. As the senator went before the court, questions remained. Could Kennedy, whose 37 summers have been spent on Cape Cod and neighboring Martha's Vineyard, have been so unfamiliar with Chappaquiddick that he left it only paved road, leading to the Edgartown ferry, for a bumpy, unlighted road leading instead to a dark and dangerous bridge with no railing? Could he have driven six-tenths of a mile down that road without realizing that he and his hessenger were off course? And how did he spend nine hours, during which he claimed he was in state of shock, before reporting the accident to Edgartown's police? Investigating these and other questions, The Associated Press has learned: —A college student working on Chappaquiddick Island says he saw Kennedy earlier Friday riding in the black car from the ferry along the paved road that leads to the summer cottage Kennedy's cousin had rented for a party. He believes he saw Kennedy make the drive later, alone, after sailing in the Edgartown Yacht Club Regatta. —A regular summer resident of Chappaquiddick says Kennedy was a frequent visitor to the island in summers past. —An Edgartown policeman says all the Kennedy brothers knew the entire area well. —A driver traveling from the cottage to the ferry—even in broad daylight—must sharply reduce speed at the T-like intersection for a 90-degree turn, either to the left or to the right. A left turn keeps the driver on the paved road and takes him to the Edgartown ferry. To the right, he immediately leaves the paved road and enters the dirt road leading to the narrow wooden bridge from which the 1966 Oldsmobile plunged into dark, swift running tidal waters. —A reflector sign before the junction guides the driver to the left along the main road. The dirt road is unmarked. —Kennedy said he was driving only 20 miles an hour, and there was no indication of high speed at the bridge. None was needed. A drive over the hump-backed structure shows that it is treacherous even in daylight at a very low speed. But the only living witness to the accident that took the life of the young secretary who was a Robert F. Kennedy campaign worker is Edward Moore Kennedy. Except for the day of the victim's funeral, the senator has been in total seclusion with his wife and friends in his summer home on Squaw Island near the famous Kennedy family compound at Hyannis Port. The approach roads are blocked by Hyannis police. Only such trusted advisers as brother-in-law Stephen Smith, former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, ex-White House aide Theodore Sorensen, attorney Burke Marshall and Reps. John Tunney of California and John Culver of Iowa were allowed in. Kennedy has made no significant public statement beyond

7 Pct. Gain in Wages of Labor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz, saying the Nixon administration is determined to halt inflation, cautioned business and labor Friday against big long-range wage and price hikes. "Just as you can price goods out of the market, it's possible to price labor out of the market too," Shultz told a news conference. His comments came at the same time the Labor Department reported that nearly 1.4 million workers won wage increases averaging more than 7 per cent a year in contract settlements the first half of this year. And the department reported two days ago that living costs were climbing at an annual rate of 6.4 per cent, swiftest rise since the Korean war. Shultz said he was particularly disturbed at what he called extraordinary wage hikes in the construction industry, averaging some 15 per cent a year. Shultz said both unions and companies should take a hard look at President Nixon's anti-inflation policy and realize that the economic situation could be quite different in another year or two and that they should consider this in negotiating long-range labor contracts. "We're not trying to tell them what to agree to, but I must say I have my reservations about these 15 per cent contracts," Shultz said. "If they make grossly erroneous projections as companies and workers, there will be consequences they won't like," he added. "I'm not trying to urge people to do something against their interests, but to examine their interests carefully," he said. The department said wage gains negotiated this year are running substantially above those of last year. The report said wage and fringe benefit increases averaged 7.2 per cent a year in a key contract agreements covering construction, transportation, lumber, metal working, clothing and petroleum industries. This compared with a 6.6 per cent average in 1968, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said. The figures apply to the increases over the life of contracts negotiated the first six months of this year. Labor contracts are generally negotiated for two or three years.

Editor The Star: Please refer to my letter of 3 June 1969, and our discussion on boat launching ramps at the public meeting at Nashville, Arkansas. I have recently investigated the launching ramps in the Beard's Bluff, Cypress Slough, and Saratoga landing public use areas. The Cypress Slough ramp is constructed on an eight percent grade and would have been made steeper if the terrain had permitted. The Beard's Bluff and Saratoga landing ramps have a grade of ten percent or better and can accommodate larger boats. Inclosed are photographs showing the launching of a medium size runabout and a fishing boat at the Cypress Slough ramp. The boats, as the pictures indicate, are afloat prior to the exhaust pipe of the truck being inundated. These pictures also show that the grade at Cypress Slough creates a problem in launching big boats, although seemingly satisfactory for smaller craft. We propose to build any future ramps at Millwood Reservoir to the steeper grades whenever the terrain permits. Sincerely yours,

Deny County Power to Begin Tax

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Constitutional Convention today rejected a proposal to grant counties extensive legislative powers, including the power to tax. A similar proposal was attached to the municipal government article two weeks ago. The vote on the county proposal was 37-38. A motion to reconsider the vote was defeated 36-37. It would have allowed a county to exercise any legislative power pertaining to county affairs not denied by a new constitution or denied to all counties generally or those within a class by a two-thirds vote of the membership of the General Assembly. Jim Brandon of Little Rock attempted to strike the two-thirds vote requirement from the proposal but his motion fell three votes short of adoption in a 36-38 vote. However, rejection of the proposal itself accomplished Brandon's purpose. The delegates then approved 65-10 a proposal permitting the voters of a county to adopt such forms of government as may be prescribed by the legislature. The votes completed action on the county government article. The convention also approved a proposal providing for changes in the number of county offices. Since nothing should ever rest upon the U.S. flag, it is improper to place the Bible, flowers or a lodge emblem on it.

Insertor for Revenue Mail

Commissioner of Revenues B. Bryan Larey announced today that the Department of Revenues has purchased a new high-speed mail-inserting machine from the Friden Division of the Singer Corporation.

Larey said the new machine, a Friden Model 800, will have a speed capacity of 6,000 insertions per hour. The Commissioner says the Friden 800 will insert envelopes up to 10 by 14 inches. "This machine provides the necessary speed we desire," Larey said. "And it gives us the versatility required by our variety of form sizes."

Raymond Gougler, Insertor Supervisor of Friden, said this is the most recent and advanced insertor in the Friden line. He said there are only five other Model 800's in the United States located at Rockwell Manufacturing in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, The Bankers Trust Company in New York City, The Technician Corporation at Terrytown, New York, The State of California Administration Department at Sacramento, California, and The Republic National Bank of Dallas, Texas.

The Arkansas Department of Revenues has one of the largest mail systems in the State. In addition to normal business transactions a combination of Motor Vehicle, Drivers License, and Income Tax Forms account for almost four million mail-outs annually by the Department.

Commissioner Larey said, "In the past, we have not been satisfied with our mailing system. We feel the Model 800 will solve a great deal of our problems and the new inserting machine will provide better, and faster service to the public."

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

"DOES THE SERVICE MAKE A MAN OUT OF A BOY?" YES, SAY READERS.

Dear Helen: As a veteran of two wars, I can say, Yes, the military DOES make men out of boys, but it has to have something to work with. I have seen spineless fellows who remain spineless, but I have also seen boys shape up under discipline and training.

War is Hell, and that is why it takes men to fight. As long as we have war, our Services will continue to make men out of boys. —CHARLES S.

Dear Helen: I spent four years in the Service and I think it makes men out of boys. I agree with the girl who was against the military in that some of the things they hand you seem senseless, but they do it so that you will obey an order out in the fighting zone, where you must respond to commands without hesitation.

Respecting authority and supervision is something we all have to learn. Sure, the Army insists on obedience, but shouldn't parents and school officials — and police — also? —YOUNG VETERAN

Dear Helen: Saying "Yes sir" and "No sir" has never hurt me or anyone I know. Only the ones who refuse to do their part in the Service get busted. If they can't make it in the military, I pity them in civilian life, where it's really hard. —DAVE D.

Dear Helen: Before my guy went in the Army, he was quite a mama's boy. When he came home on leave, he was a different fellow. He grew up. —ENGAGED TO A MAN NOW.

Dear Helen: I read the letter from C.B. concerning the Army's ability (inability?) to build men. Here in Vietnam, there is no room for a boy. All the foolish "games" of basic training suddenly take on a new meaning and become a sometimes horrifying reality.

Our own society's present condition is evidence enough that discipline is a necessity. Freedom without discipline soon becomes chaos. Let's face it, one man's freedom is another man's restrictive regulations. . . perhaps sometimes his very life!

L. APO, SAN FRANCISCO

Dear Helen: When I went into the Service five years ago, my father said "The Army will make a man of you." But Helen, death is not a basis on which to judge manhood. I felt less like a man when I got out. I guess I felt more like a dog. —B.C.

Dear Helen: I would like to completely refute any view that "the Service makes a man out of a boy." I served in the Army and became the man that society deemed I was to be. However, Service was irrelevant to my new-found manhood.

It was not my training that made a man out of me, but my emotions that were aroused by man's inhumanity to man. I learned how to kill my fellowman, saw trainees die from over-exhaustion and men beaten for mere infractions of the rules.

I discarded this period of indoctrination to machine morality and came out a MAN. But I regret that I serve an institution that makes good boys into "good killers." If this is society's definition of a man, God help us all! —A READER

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — There has never been a television show like it: from Cape Kennedy, outer space, the moon and the Pacific where the Apollo 11 astronauts landed safely.

Man was unleashed from his planet and practically the whole world was witness.

"Our minds are staggered and our spirits exalted," said Navy Chaplain Lt. Cmdr. John A. Pirto in ceremonies aboard the recovery ship Hornet.

Surely, it will be a long time before we ever again see anything as thrilling, as moving and as significant.

The networks wound up their coverage of the eight-day voyage Thursday with live pictures by satellite from the Hornet.

Darkness and heavy cloud cover prevented us from seeing the capsule coming down, but the sight of the astronauts coming aboard and talking with President Nixon from the mobile isolation facility was a fitting climax.

The coverage by ABC, CBS and NBC was superb. In a lesson learned from other flights, the commentators usually kept quiet so we could hear the words from the astronauts and The Manned Spacecraft Center.

Over-all, CBS showed more imagination, more resourcefulness, and Walter Cronkite and retired astronaut Walter M. Schirra added a personal touch lacking at the other networks.

CBS' superior coverage fell down slightly during the splash-down, however, because of repeated interruptions for commercials. NBC, on the other hand, stayed with the story continuously until the astronauts were safely aboard the hornet.

Additional live coverage is planned when the astronauts arrive in Hawaii for transfer to a plane for the flight to Houston sometime Saturday. The first color film which will be released in Houston by NASA Monday afternoon and the networks will broadcast the pictures as they become available.

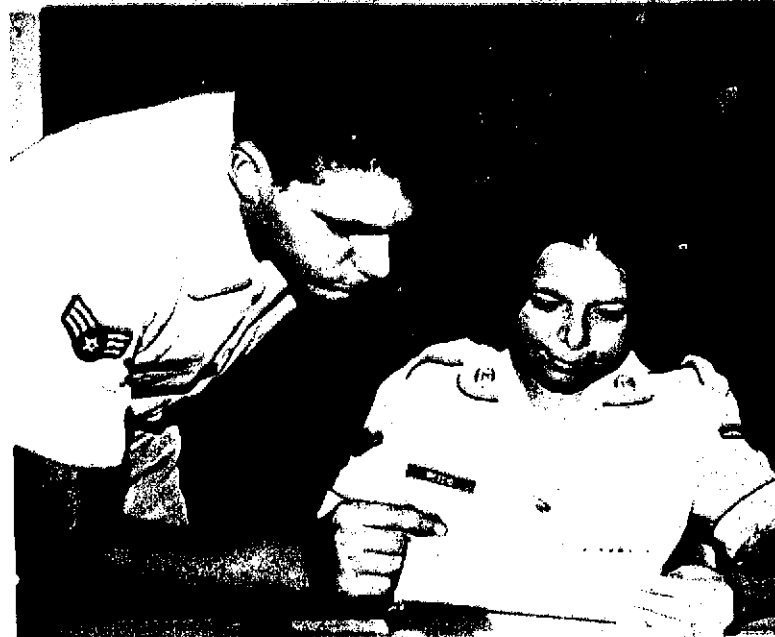

Pictures of Mars from Mariner 6, launched Feb. 24, will be broadcast beginning at about 9:30 p.m. EDT next Tuesday. Still photographs of the surface of Mars from a distance of between 6,000 and 2,000 miles will be relayed 60 million miles to a 210-foot dish antenna at Goldstone, Calif., then to the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at Pasadena, Calif.

The live pictures from the Hornet traveled a distance one-fifth of the way to the moon to get from the Pacific to New York, 6,000 miles away. The 500,000 mile journey took a quarter of a second.

The pictures were beamed from a 15-foot portable antenna aboard the ship to a satellite 22,240 miles over the Pacific, which relayed them to a Comsat satellite tracking station at Jamesburg, Calif. From there they went overland by wire to the television pool manned by ABC in New York.

The portable satellite transmitter, built by the General Electric space systems organization for Western Union, was first used for the splashdown of Apollo 7 last October. Cost of the satellite transmission is unknown, but Western Union lists the rate between Honolulu and San Francisco at $1,175 for the first 10 minutes.

Girl From Nevada Co. Air Force Traveler

JO MARGARET RETTIG

HICKAM AFB, Hawaii — Jo Margaret Rettig happiness is travelling and meeting new people. And judging from the 5,000 miles she's covered in the last eight months, this Air Force native of Nevada County, Arkansas, is happy.

Margaret is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Rettig, Route 2, Prescott, Ark. She is presently assigned as an administrative specialist to the 6486th Air Base Wing, Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

The Air Force is a family matter with the Rettigs, and Margaret says that had a lot to do with her decision to join the Women in the Air Force (WAF). Brother Billy Joe was in the Army Air Corps and her sister, Sergeant Edith Ellen Rettig, is an administrative specialist at Plattsburg Air Force Base, N.Y.

"It's just something I've always wanted to do," Margaret says. "I enjoy meeting new people. In fact I loved basic training."

Margaret spent most of her life in Prescott, graduating from Prescott High School in June, 1966. That September she moved to Holyoke, Mass., and took a job as a secretary for National Transparent Plastics. In May, 1968, she journeyed to Spokane, Wash., and in November entered the Air Force.

About Hawaii she says, "I just love the beach. I love the atmosphere of Hawaii — the tropical surroundings." Her favorite off-duty pastimes include reading, water skiing, horseback riding, tennis and "watching football games." Margaret also enjoys taking in Honolulu's nightlife with a date.

Having enlisted in the Air Force at Spokane in November of 1968, Margaret was sent to basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. That six-week training was followed by specialized administrative training at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss. She was assigned to Hickam in March, 1969.

The future will include more travelling, if Margaret has her way. High on her list of places to visit is Alaska ("I'm dying to go to Alaska, and then I'll have been in just about all the 50 states.") and Spain ("I've always wanted to see Spain, I hear it's just beautiful, Europe too.")

For the immediate future the 21-year-old WAF wants to continue her education at the University of Hawaii.

Airman Rettig's duties as an administrative specialist include: assisting in the receipt, control and disposition of all incoming and outgoing messages at the Base Headquarters. Total messages each month is above 21,000. In addition, she instructs organizations in proper message preparation and management.

Margaret feels the Air Force has her in the right job. She says the work is very similar to the secretarial duties she had in civilian life. As for Air Force life, the proof is in the tasting, "I really love it — I wouldn't trade it for anything in the world," says Margaret.

For those young ladies in local area who wish to find out more about the Women in the Air Force and how they too can enjoy the life of a WAF, write in care of USAF Recruiting Office, P.O. Box 366, Texarkana, Ark. 75501.

Lolich Upset But Manages a Victory

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Mickey Lolich was stranded in Washington for awhile, but not long enough to suit the Kansas City Royals.

Lolich, left behind by teammate Denny McLain who flew the All-Star coop early, caught an evening commercial flight and got to Detroit in plenty of time to pitch the Tigers to a 3-1 victory over the Royals on a four-hitter Thursday night.

But the Tiger left-hander's feathers still were ruffled by the McLain affair. Denny flew off in his private plane after his brief All-Star appearance, leaving Lolich and his wife stranded without transportation. Mickey had planned on returning to Detroit in McLain's plane.

"Denny pulled a crummy trick on me," complained Lolich. Then he took out his anger on the poor Royals, striking out 13 of them and running his season's record to 14-2.

Elsewhere in the American League Thursday, Baltimore rapped Chicago 5-2, Cleveland edged Minnesota 6-5, Oakland nipped Washington 2-1, New York dropped California 3-1 and Seattle tripped Boston 8-6.

In the National League, Chicago tripped Los Angeles 5-3, Atlanta ripped Montreal 9-6, Cincinnati trimmed New York 4-3 in 12 innings, Houston dumped Philadelphia 7-3, Pittsburgh squeezed past San Diego 4-3 in 10 innings and St. Louis edged San Francisco 2-1.

Lolich, who couldn't get a little transportation help from McLain a day earlier, got plenty of long ball support from his other teammates against Kansas City.

After the Royals had scored a run on a pair of singles and a sacrifice fly in the fourth, Al Kaline's 12th homer of the season tied it for the Tigers in the bottom half of the inning.

One inning later, Don Wert and Tom Tresh both connected, giving Lolich a comfortable cushion.

Boog Powell teed off on Tommy John, who has become his favorite whipping boy this season. Powell lined his 25th homer and third in six swings against John this year, keying a three-run Baltimore seventh that carried the Orioles past Chicago.

Frank Robinson singled the tie-breaking run home before Powell unloaded against John. Mike Cuellar, 11-9, got credit for the victory with relief help from Eddie Watt. It marked the first time this season that Cuellar has won without pitching a complete game.

Ken Harrelson slugged a pair of home runs but it was Lou Klimchok's seventh inning triple that drove in Cleveland's winning run against Minnesota.

Harrelson's second homer of the game and 20th of the season tied the score with Indians in the seventh and then Tony Horton singled. Klimchok followed with his game-winning triple.

Harmon Killebrew hit his 29th homer and 11th this month for the Twins.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter pitched a four-hitter and Sal Bando's bloop single with two out in the eighth inning chased home Reggie Jackson with Oakland's winning run against Washington.

Jackson had walked and reached second on Joe Coleman's wild pitch before Bando's second hit of the night brought him home. Lee Maye homered for the Senators.

Joe Pepitone's third-inning double was the Yankees' big hit against the Angels. It drove in two runs and moments later, Pepitone scored on Roy White's hit. Stan Bahnsen and Jack Aker made the early lead stand up.

Jerry McNertney slammed a bases-loaded double, driving in three runs and then started another Seattle rally with his second double of the night, leading the Pilots past Boston.

Carl Yastrzemski drove in four runs with a pair of singles for the Red Sox, who had their winning streak snapped at four games.

Richie Allen Returns, But Phils Lose

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Richie Allen might be a strong candidate for Comeback of the Year honors in Philadelphia, but the Phillies seem certain to prove his return can't bring them back.

With the disappearing first baseman in the line-up for the first time since he went AWOL June 24 and was suspended, the Phillies shrugged off his presence and lost again, 7-3 at Houston Thursday night. It was their 10th defeat in 11 games.

Even with him the first 63 games of the season, they rolled down a 26-37 record. When he pulled the latest of his disappearing acts last month that cost him $11,000 in suspended salary, the Phils went on a nine-game winning streak, but then collapsed to 13-18 without him.

The baffling slugger did his best against the Astros with a run-scoring double and a bunt single—he struck out his other two times at bat—but it will take more than Mr. Allen to make the Phillies a winner.

Earlier in the day, the Chicago Cubs showed again it will take more than Don Sutton to make them a loser as they beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3, running Sutton's record against them to 0-13 in four years.

The victory increased the Cubs' Eastern Division lead in the National League to 5½ games over the New York Mets, who dropped a 4-3 decision to Cincinnati in 12 innings.

Atlanta, with Hank Aaron moving into fourth place on the all-time home run list, increased its Western Division lead with a 9-6 victory over Montreal while St. Louis dropped San Francisco and Juan Marichal 2-1.

Pittsburgh edged San Diego 4-3 in 10 innings in the other game.

In the American League, Baltimore upended the Chicago White Sox 5-2, Cleveland topped Minnesota 6-5, Detroit defeated Kansas City 3-1, Oakland edged Washington 2-1, Seattle outlasted Boston 8-6 and the New York Yankees trimmed California 3-1.

Allen doubled in a run in the first inning and a homer by another returnee, injured Johnny Callison, helped the Phils to a 3-0 lead. But that was it against Don Wilson, 11-7, who gave only six other hits and struck out 12.

The Astros, meanwhile, took the lead in the fifth with five runs as Denis Menke doubled in three and Doug Rader singled in two. Menke later singled in another run, and Allen must have left thinking "nothing's changed."

The Cubs held onto their jinx against Sutton, 12-10, with the help of Al Spangler's two out fly ball that Andy Kosco lost in the sun for a two-run double in the sixth inning for a 3-1 lead. Randy Hundley followed with a two-run single.

Winner Ken Holtzman, 12-5, lasted only into the seventh, but Phil Regan saved the game for him and dropped the Dodgers two games back at Atlanta.

Tony Perez' homer in the 12th, following earlier blasts by Bobby Tolan and pitcher Jim Merritt, gave Cincinnati its victory after the Mets had fought back three times to tie, twice on homers by Donn Clendenon and Cleon Jones.

Aaron hit the 535th homer of his career with one out in the seventh inning, breaking a 5-5 deadlock, and Orlando Cepeda hit a two-run shot in the same inning in a game of seven homers. Aaron's blast moved him ahead of Jimmy Foxx and one behind Mickey Mantle.

Mack Jones hit two homers for Montreal.

Nelson Briles, 10-9, outdueled Marichal, 13-5, with ninth inning relief help from Joe Hoerner. Briles also singled in the winning run for St. Louis in the seventh inning, sending the Giants two games back at Atlanta.

Matty Alou doubled with one out in the 10th for Pittsburgh and scored on Carl Taylor's single after Alou's error in the ninth had helped the Padres tie.

Sikes and Barber each shot 71 in Thursday's opening round. Dick Crawford of Bella Vista shot 72. Thursday's best round was 65.

Mitchell and Wilcox Lead Nicklaus

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The ominous shadow of big Jack Nicklaus loomed over the shoulders of first-round leaders Bob Mitchell and Terry Wilcox today going into the second round of the $125,000 American Golf Classic.

Mitchell and Wilcox, a couple of relative newcomers, carved out five-under-par 65s in the first round Thursday and spearheaded the most massive assault ever on the rugged south course at the Firestone Country Club.

In all, 27 broke par 70 on the gigantic course, a 7,180-yard layout called by the touring pros the most demanding they play. The previous record for sub-par rounds was 16.

But Mitchell and Wilcox were anything but secure and confident in their spot with the awesome Nicklaus just one stroke behind at 66.

Bert Greene, Tom Nieporte, Steve Reid and Ray Floyd were tied at 67.

"I'm not there yet," the powerful Nicklaus said. "But it's getting better."

"For the first time this year I feel I can make a putt and that's better than thinking you can't make anything."

"I'm driving better. My irons are spottier but better. I know I'm swinging better because I'm hitting them further."

Nicklaus, along with Mitchell and Chi Chi Rodriguez, matched the course record 31 on the back nine but credited it all to his putting.

"I putted very well," said Nicklaus, making his first start in this country in a month, "but I really didn't play all that well."

Big Jack, in a slump since the winter tour, had birdie putts of 20, 8, 13, 22 and 20 feet, reached a par 5 in 2 for another and bogeyed twice, once hitting a tree and missing the green the other time.

Neither Mitchell nor Wilcox had played the course before this week but neither had major difficulties.

Mitchell, a 26-year-old from Danville, Va., on the tour 3½ years without a victory, spiced his round with a monster 60-foot birdie putt and had nine one-putt greens.

"I just played my regular game," he said. "I just went out there to try to play good. I didn't try any shortcuts."

The crewcut Wilcox, 30, who divides his time between the tour and his club job at the Siwanoy Country Club in Bronxville, N.Y., also is seeking his first tour victory.

He pitched in from 30 yards on the fourth hole, the first of three consecutive birdies, twice pitched inside of three feet, rolled in putts of 25 and 15 feet, for other birds, and had two bogies.

Arnold Palmer struggled to a 75. He missed 10-foot putts on the first three holes, three-putted the fourth and fifth and took four to get down from the fringe at the sixth.

Frank Beard and Masters champ George Archer were in a big group at 68 with Dave Hill at 69. Lee Trevino, Orville Moody and Julius Boros had 71s.

Gallant Bloom, Shueve Favorites

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
There should be a coronation of sorts Saturday—when King Ranch's Gallant Bloom and Mrs. Whitney Stone's Shueve hook up in the Delaware Oaks at Delaware Park.

Victory by either would be a big step toward becoming Queen of the 3-year-old fillies.

A defeat by both—well that's not supposed to happen—but at least six others are expected to try to pull it off.

Two-year-old fillies will also be out to make an impression, and lots of money, in the $100,000 Sorority at Monmouth Park.

Joining the Delaware Oaks as $50,000-added features Saturday will be the Susquehanna Handicap at Liberty Bell Park, the Assault Handicap at Arlington Park and the Tidal Handicap at Aqueduct.

In three meetings between Gallant Bloom and Shueve as 2-year-olds, Gallant Bloom won twice. This year, Gallant Bloom has won all four starts, all stakes, while Shueve has won four straight after losing her debut. Her victories include New York's Triple Crown for Fillies—the Acorn, Mother Goose and Coaching Club American Oaks.

The two starts will carry 121 pounds each, from seven 50 10 more than their six expected rivals.

The Oaks will be run at 1½ miles.

A field of 12, including three supplemented at $5,000 each, is likely for the six-furlong Futurity. All starters will carry 119 pounds each.

C. T. Grissem's Miss Ribot, highweighted at 119 pounds, and the Hobeau Farm pair of Harm Lady, 117, and A Pleasant Sort, 110, head a probable field of at least eight for the 1½-mile Susquehanna Handicap for fillies and mares. In her last start, Miss Ribot won the Beverly Hills Handicap on the turf at Hollywood Park.

Eleven are likely for the 1½-mile Assault Handicap on the grass for 3-year-olds, including J. M. Olin's Eaglesham, winner of the Lexington Handicap at Aqueduct and topweighted at 188 pounds; King Ranch's Distray, 115, and Watermill Farm's Zorco, 112.

Rokey Stable's Fort Marcy, topweighted at 126 pounds, is the early choice for the Tidal Handicap on closing day at Aqueduct. The 1½-mile test on the grass could draw as many as 10, including Craigwood Stable's Harlow, 123; Joseph A. Gilosa's Liaison, 113, and Marlon R. Frankel's Baltman, 110.

He is Chick Evans, 31, of Northridge, Mass., enjoying his second season on the pro tour. Evans' previous high finish was eighth in the little-known Robinson Open in Illinois last fall.

Thursday he was 33-35 for a 68.

Shueve, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., fired a blistering five-under-par 67 over the 7,076-yard Pinegrove course at nearby St. Luc to help himself to a one-stroke lead over the field. He put together nines of 33 and 34.

The few other name players in this tournament, which coincides with the American Classic in Akron, Ohio, were within comfortable range to take aim at Snead's slim margin today.

But the list of the 50 top scorers in the opening round was cluttered with unknowns, for the most part hungry youngsters seeking a good pay day from the $125,000 jackpot.

One such newcomer found himself in second place just one stroke off Snead's pace.

Lee To Fight Hank in Oakland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
OAKLAND (AP) — Terry Lee of Oakland signed Thursday to fight veteran Hank of Detroit in the Oakland Auditorium on Aug. 8.

"I'm working on some things that are helping me," said the gracious blonde who went into today's second round sharing a one-stroke lead with Susie Berning after each posted a three-under-par 70 Thursday.

"I'm sorry, I can't tell you what they are."

Whatever her secret is, it's been working. She won the Lady Carling at Danbury, Conn., last week and continued her blistering pace with a bogey-free 33-37 over the lake-laced, 6,306-yard, par 73 Concord Hotel golf course.

Gaging Betsy Rawls, a two-time LPGA winner, was next at 71, followed by Kathy Whitworth at 72, newly wed "Mildie" Lindstrom Breer at 73 and Sandra Spizich and Little Marlene Hagee at 74. U.S. Open champion Donna Caponi posted a 76 and defending champion Sandra Post zoomed to 80.

This championship, the richest in women's golf, is the only major title Carol hasn't won in nine years as a pro.

"I've never even shared the lead before," she said. "Something always seems to happen to me. Last year I had to withdraw during the first round because of a muscle spasm. Maybe I'm jinxed."

Miss Mann, the second leading money winner with three victories and more than $22,000 this year, was troubled slightly by a muscle spasm in her shoulder on the back nine. She headed for her room in hopes a heating pad would solve the problem.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Berning, one of the late finishers, was applying some heat of her own. The little blonde wielded a sizzling putter for just 30 putts in carding five birdies and just two bogeys on this snake-like course, which is regarded as one of the finest in the country.

Susie, the 1968 U.S. Open champion and winner of two tournaments this year, never has won this championship either but had a different reason for wanting to play well. It was her husband, Dale's 31st birthday.

The Concord course has been shortened since the Concord Open last summer when it played at 6,900 yards, par 77 and produced the highest scores in LPGA history. But the layout was up to its nickname.

"The Monster" for some of the girls in the record field of 63. There were 35 scores—in the low 80s.

The venerable Patty Berg, the game's grand dame, was pleased with her 77 and hoped to be among the low 40 finishers and ties after today's round who qualify for the final 36 holes.

She said of the course, "There's a little for the bear, a little for the bull, but nothing for the hog."

HOPE NEWSPAPER HISTORY:
The 1929 consolidation joined the two principal newspaper lines dating back to within five years of Hope's incorporation in 1875.

1899 — Star of Hope founded as a weekly by Claude Mc-Corkle; converted to an evening daily by his son, Ed. McCorkle, publishing until the 1929 consolidation.

The opposition line:
1880 — Hope News founded by Lowry Brothers.

1883 — Sold to Withers & Johnson, name changed to Hope Telegraph.

1883 — Later in same year resold to Claude McCorkle and renamed Hope Mercury.

1884 — Sold to James H. Betts, who named it Hope Gazette, under which name it was published continuously until 1922, published by
Betts, J. L. Tullis, and Col. W. W.
Folsom the last-named dying in 1916.

1916 — Purkins & Gates bought the weekly Gazette and made it a companion paper to their new daily, Arkansas Evening Herald
— but both papers suspended in 1922.

1926 — Plant was revived by Curtis Cannon as the weekly
Hempstead County Review.

1927 — Cannon sold plant to D.A. Gean, who established the morning Hope Daily Press.

1929 — C. E. Palmer and A.H.
Washburn consolidated The Star and the Press as Hope Star, with Palmer as president and Washburn secretary-treasurer.

1957 — Following Mr. Palmer's death Mrs. Palmer became president.

1969 — With Mrs. Palmer's retirement from Star Publishing Co. Washburn became 76 per cent owner and president — balance 24 per cent being held by Texarkana Newspapers, Inc.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Best to Cook Meats,
Wash All Vegetables

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—Since protein is an important element of diet, how can a strict vegetarian get enough of it to maintain his health?

A—If a vegetarian allows himself some milk and cheese daily, he can do very nicely. Some vegetarians also eat eggs, which are a rich source of protein but do not come from a slaughterhouse. Those who take no food of animal origin are seriously handicapped because, like it or not, the human digestive tract is not designed for hay burning.

Q—Do farmers spray chemicals on vegetables? If so, must they be washed before we eat them? Is it dangerous to eat raw beef or pork?

A—Such vegetables as green beans and tomatoes that grow above the ground are likely to be sprayed with insecticides. They should be washed before you eat them. Raw beef and pork may contain tapeworm eggs and raw pork may contain the larvae of trichinella. Cook them.

Q—Does drinking orange juice make a person grow?

A—Orange juice is a rich source of vitamin C. It is essential for healthy teeth, gums, bones and blood vessels but it will not increase your stature.

Q—What effect does eating hot peppers and spices have on your stomach?

A—Primarily, it starts the flow of the gastric juice. Most natives of the tropics seem to thrive on these condiments but persons with colitis and other digestive troubles might do well to compare the effect of putting pepper in their eyes with that of putting it in their stomachs.

Q—After reading about the effect of coffee on one's heart, kidneys and nerves, I cut myself down to one cup a day. I slept better but I got headaches, so I switched to Postum. What effect does Postum have on one's system?

A—Headaches are a common symptom of caffeine withdrawal and are the reason many persons prefer not to develop a dependence on this stimulant. Postum is a cereal beverage that contains no caffeine and is completely harmless unless you are allergic to wheat.

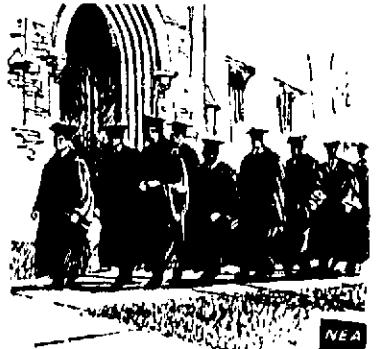

Q—Could eating pepper-mint candy every day for many years be harmful?

A—Only to your teeth.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

In 1900, only 4 per cent of American college-age youngsters attended college. The percentage increased to 35 by 1956, to 45 per cent by 1968 and is expected to reach 50 per cent by 1970. The World Almanac notes. The number of colleges, junior colleges and universities had increased to 2,537 by 1968, attended by some seven million students preparing for one of 22,000 careers.

INSANITY

plea filed in death

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — John Guthrie, 22, of Fayetteville Thursday pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to a charge of first-degree murder in connection with the beating death of Arley Garrett, 57, of Fayetteville.

Garrett's badly beaten body was found in a vacant lot on April 11 in Fayetteville. Circuit Court Judge Maupin Cummings agreed to pleas by Guthrie's attorneys to have the defendant sent to the state hospital for 30 days psychiatric examination.

Guthrie is one of two persons charged in connection with Garrett's death. Arthur Boyd, 41, of Fayetteville, was tried for first-degree murder but the case ended in a hung jury on April 30.

Our Daily Bread

Sliced Thin by The Editor
Alex. N. Washburn
Just Imagine
Clipped Headline
Name Is Jones

When they were passing around prizes to people interviewed on TV as to what they thought could be accomplished by man's landing on the moon the man who took the cake was a space fiction-writer who came up with this:

The great advantage is that man can now go out and populate other planets. Our earth will eventually die, but with human beings implanted on other worlds we have a guarantee our race won't die. So what the moon landing means is, man has a chance to win immortality.

That's what the man said. But what the man didn't say is: Old Mother Earth still has a life projection of millions of years — and for all he knows some of those other planets may expire when the earth does — if not sooner.

It was a clever notion — but clobbered by the celestial timetable.

In Wednesday's edition I wrote a new headline reporting that the astronauts returning from the moon would splash down close to the "U.S. Hornet" — knowing when I wrote it I was likely to hear from some ex-Navy man.

Sure enough, I did. At coffee Thursday Arthur Strech reminded me the correct Navy designation is "U.S.S. Hornet."

But I was laying for whoever. I replied, "Yes, I know — but the second 'S' wouldn't fit into the column. It would have come out: 'U.S.S. Horn'."

We quit even. Strech had his valid criticism — and I had my valid rebuttal.

The reason I was handling the news desk — and still am — is that Managing Editor Paul H. Jones is winding up the second week of vacation and still has another week to go.

The Joneses and son Ronnie are somewhere in Kentucky with a Thunderbird and a fast boat, due home Aug. 4.

Next week I'll begin counting the remaining days in the salt mine.

Showers Nearing an End

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. Weather Bureau said today that shower activity should decrease over the weekend and that the mercury again will hover around the 100-degree mark in many sections of the state.

Slightly drier and more stable air was approaching the state from the west today.

Afternoon and evening showers are expected to develop, but the showers are expected to be more scattered than in the past two days.

The state experienced its second straight day Thursday of severe thunderstorm warnings. Winds of 50 miles an hour hit the Harrison area and there were unconfirmed sightings of tornado funnels. However, no major damage was reported.

Temperatures climbed to the 90s in all but extreme north Arkansas Thursday before the shower activity brought its cooling effects. The high was 101 at Texarkana.

A stationary front lies over the extreme north part of Arkansas while southwest winds around a high pressure ridge in the Gulf pump warm, moist air into the state.

Thunderstorms spawned by the front as it advanced into the state Thursday was widespread and general. Most sections of the state received needed rainfall of one-half to one inch.

Lows tonight are expected to range from 66-76. Overnight lows included 65 at Memphis, 66 at Harrison, 67 at Fayetteville, 69 at Jonesboro and Pine Bluff, 71 at El Dorado, 72 at Little Rock, 73 at Fort Smith and 74 at Texarkana.

A trace of rain was recorded at Memphis, .93 of an inch at Fayetteville, .66 at Harrison, .09 at El Dorado and Jonesboro, 1.11 inches at Pine Bluff, .06 at Texarkana and .25 at Little Rock during the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m. today.

Ft. Smith Methodists Rebel

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — The Administrative Board of First United Methodist Church at Fort Smith has expressed disagreement with recent action by the church's national organization.

The Executive Committee of the national organization allocated $300,000 in response to James Forman's demands for almost $500 million in reparations from churches.

The Fort Smith group said it disagreed with the idea of reparations, coercion, threat of excommunication and any response which encourages Forman's group in its demand.

One such action is the calling for a meeting in Washington by the Executive Committee of the national group to consider allocating $1 million more for the Forman group, the Fort Smith group said.

The Fort Smith church board said ways would be explored to work effectively with the poor in Fort Smith.

1 Dead, 5 Hurt in Road Crash

VAN BUREN, Ark. (AP) — One person was killed and five others injured Thursday night in a one-car accident, four miles north of Van Buren on U.S. 59.

Dead is Phillip Green, 20, of Fort Smith, driver of the car.

The injured were identified as Mac Borden, 27, of Gramercy, La.; Shelby Oubre, 22, of Darrow, La.; Daniel Veron, 22, of Luthero, La.; Sue Coran, 20, of Fort Smith and Charlot Hufstetter, 13, of Van Buren.

Police said Green apparently lost control of the car on a curve and it overturned on an embankment. Green was thrown from the car.

Curtis Folks Return to Homes

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Police today allowed persons to return home who lived no closer than a half mile to the scene of Wednesday's derailment of a Missouri Pacific freight train.

Officers said a decision would be made later this morning on whether to allow all persons to return home.

About 100 persons were evacuated early Thursday morning when the car derailed in the Curtis area about a mile east of U.S. 67.

Lightning Kills 2 From Missouri

HARRISON, Ark. (AP) — Donald L. Irwin, 33, and his son, Bruce, 12, of Springfield, Mo., were killed Thursday when struck by lightning at a Table Rock Lake boat dock while breaking camp by some trees at the water's edge.

Since their launching, the Mariners have completed one experiment successfully. This was direct measurement in deep space of the sun's heat.

Shadow of the Law's Defeat Falls Upon Chinese Father, Son

By SID MOODY

AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The case never even made the courts. That's why it lodges in the memory.

The name is different, but this is the way the father tells it. Call him Mr. Kee. He was born in China and now lives in a residential borough of New York. He has three children, one of them a son, 11.

Family ties are strong among the Chinese, and so it was with Mr. Kee and his son.

Recently Kee gave the boy a small motorized bike. The law forbids a child to drive on the street, but he can in a park. So one day the son and some of his friends took the new bike out to a park not far away to try it out.

They were approached by some older boys—white—who demanded the bike. The son

Nudists Run Into an Age-Old Affliction: It's the Peeping Tom

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP) — Some 250 nudists from across the East stripped down for a convention under the hot July sun and ran into a familiar problem—three peeping toms in underpants.

"That was the giveaway. Everybody else was naked," said Jim Hadley, manager of the Cypress Cove nudist resort.

Hadley and his big German shepherd dog convinced the teen-aged boys, who waded around the end of an eight-foot fence to join lake swimmers, to stand still Thursday until a deputy sheriff arrived.

Then conventioners of the American Sunbathing Association's eastern division, representing 36 camps, got back to business under the sun in preparation for the national meeting next month at Granger, Ind.

Selection of a nudist king and queen will dominate interest on Sunday, final day of the convention.

"That's the main attraction. It's more or less based on beauty and popularity," Hadley said.

Contestants wearing nary a fig leaf will walk the length of a platform. Other nudists in the audience will make known their favorites by applauding.

"Usually," Hadley explained, "the most attractive woman gets the most applause."

Playing within a seven-acre compound almost surrounded by a high, sheet metal fence, the tanned sun worshippers also plan to compete in tennis, volleyball, shuffleboard, ping pong and billiards.

A nudist at 20 years, Hadley said he has watched the average age of nudists grow younger and the pastime gain popularity with families. He said they come from all walks of life.

Earth to Get TV View of Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — While the nation celebrates the Apollo 11 moon mission triumph, two unmanned spacecraft, Mariner 6 and 7, are zipping toward Mars to give earth's television viewers another space spectacular.

Mariner 6 is expected to beam back pictures of Mars from 2,000 miles from the surface next Tuesday, images that will take 5½ minutes to travel the 6 million miles.

Mariner 7 is to start sending pictures back on Aug. 3. The pictures are expected to reveal new details of the planet.

A spokesman for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, part of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said Thursday both Mariner missions are right on schedule.

Mars was televised by Mariner 4 in 1965, but NASA engineers promise pictures far higher in quality from Mariners 6 and 7 than was possible four years ago.

"The really important keys to our progress are the improvements in the spacecraft and the ground receiver. We have been able to increase transmitter power, raising the strength of the signal on its journey to earth," said Gerald M. Truzyński, NASA's associate administrator for tracking and data acquisition.

"On the ground, we have better design of the large antenna and microwave amplifier and receivers that go with them to provide much higher sensitivity and lower noise level."

"And the communications satellites permit the worldwide distribution of these signals as they are received back on earth," he said.

Since their launching, the Mariners have completed one experiment successfully. This was direct measurement in deep space of the sun's heat.

Nation Salutes Astronauts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With pealing bells and wailing sirens, hoarse cheers and popping firecrackers, champagne celebrations and solemn prayers, an exultant nation saluted the safe return of its Apollo 11 astronauts.

Americans in tiny crossroads towns and in sprawling concrete cities focused their attention on television screens Thursday to watch the splashdown of the spacecraft carrying the first men to walk the moon. Others listened to radio broadcasts.

Then the voyage of astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins which captured the world's imagination for eight days was over and the celebrating began.

Civil defense sirens everywhere in Los Angeles County except the City of Los Angeles wailed a two minute tribute. Church bells chimed along Fifth Avenue in New York. Ticker tape fluttered down in San Francisco.

In Armstrong's home town of Wapakoneta, Ohio, the high school band appeared in front of his parents' home on Neil Armstrong Drive and played a serenade. "Oh, bless their hearts!" said Mrs. Stephen Armstrong, the astronaut's mother.

"I don't have words to describe how proud I am," said Neil's father. "It's not proud. I'd have to get a dictionary to find a better word."

In Montclair, N.J., the Clairidge Theater took down the letters on its marquee advertising the current attraction and replaced them with: "Congratulations Buzz Aldrin—Montclair Man on the Moon."

Thousands on their lunch hour in New York City jammed sidewalks in front of television showrooms to view the end of the epic adventure.

Cheers erupted on the floors of the New York and American Stock Exchanges and the tape that normally carries the price quotations flashed: "Astronauts Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins, so proudly we hail you."

In Huntsville, Ala., where the Saturn 5 rocket was developed, all businesses were asked to close for a post splashdown celebration.

Tucker Fugitives Captured

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — Two inmates who escaped Thursday from Tucker Prison Farm were apprehended late Thursday in Little Rock and were returned to prison, authorities said.

The two were identified as Roy Reynolds, 32, serving 99 years for rape and kidnapping, and James A. Bass, 27, serving five years for burglary. Each was sentenced from Crittenden County.

Authorities said a .38-caliber pistol and a prison vehicle taken in the escape also were recovered.

Would Run Counties by Council

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Counties would be governed by a council under a proposal adopted Thursday by the state Constitutional Convention.

In Thursday's session, delegates voted 76-0 in approving the council form of government to replace the ancient quorum court system.

The measure would have the legislature classify all 75 counties into no more than five classes, which would be used as the basis for deciding how many members each county's council would have.

The councils would have five, seven or nine members, depending on the classification given to the county by the legislature. The races for the positions would be nonpartisan.

The county government also would have a county administrator, elected by the voters just as the county judge currently is elected. The county administrator would serve a four-year term.

Under the proposal, four-year terms also would be served by county sheriff, treasurer, tax collector, clerk, court clerk, and assessor. The positions of county coroner and county surveyor would be eliminated.

Charles Roscoff of Helena, a delegate, told the convention he thought voters would approve the county council government system. He said it would operate much like the mayor-council system in cities.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Constitutional Convention, continuing its work on county government reorganization, today approved a proposal providing for changes in the number of county offices.

The proposal, approved 76-1, would allow the county council with the consent of the voter to create, consolidate, separate, revise or abandon any county office or offices except during the term to which an official was elected.

Approved 72-4 was a proposal prescribing the duties of the county administrator. It gives him the power to veto over actions of the county council, which in turn would be in power to override a veto by a majority vote.

The administrator would appoint members of county boards and commissions with the approval of the county council.

The council would be authorized to levy taxes, appropriate county funds and adopt planning and zoning ordinances.

H. Jones Named to ARN Panel

The Arkansas Radio Network has formed an advisory committee to represent the affiliates and meet with ARN officials from time to time to discuss network operations. Those selected were:

Haskell Jones, KXAR, Hope, Southwest region, 1-year term.

Hi Mayo, KBRI, Brinkley, Southeast region, 2-year term.

Adrian White, KPOC, Pocahtontas, Northeast region, 2-year term.

The first meeting is scheduled August 28 and 29 in Hot Springs in conjunction with the Arkansas Broadcasters meetings.

Cattlemen to Meet on Tuesday

The Hempstead County Cattlemen's Association will meet at the Diamond Cafe Tuesday night, July 29, at 7:30 o'clock.

Rhea Hackler, national director of the National Farmers Organization, will be the guest speaker. He will discuss the possibility of a feeder calf sale.

Barney Starkey, president, urges all members to attend this meeting.

Ominous Overtones in EMK Pleads Guilty to Leaving Scene

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
And
DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writers

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy was no stranger to the tiny Chappaquiddick Island where he made a 180-degree wrong turn down a lonely dirt road that led Mary Jo Kopechne to her death.

In his only statement since the mysterious accident last Friday night or early Saturday that took the 28-year-old woman's life, Kennedy said Saturday:

"I was unfamiliar with the road and turned right down Dyke Road instead of bearing hard left on Main Street (By Main Street he meant Chappaquiddick Road, the island's only paved artery)."

However, a college student said he saw Kennedy at least one, possibly twice, before the Friday accident, traveling the paved road on the three-mile-wide island south of Cape Cod. And others said Kennedy had been on the island frequently before.

That Friday evening one week ago began with a nostalgic party. It ended with Miss Kopechne drowned in Teddy Kennedy's automobile, and with the 37-year-old Massachusetts senator, a leading prospect for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, facing a charge of leaving the scene of a fatal accident.

Today, Kennedy is to make his first court appearance in Edgartown to waive a preliminary show-cause hearing and accept arraignment on the misdemeanor charge.

His options at the arraignment were to plead guilty, innocent or no contest. An innocent plea would lead to a trial where SAIGON (AP) — Seven Americans and two South Vietnamese soldiers were killed when enemy gunners shot down a U.S. helicopter in the Plain of Reeds along the Cambodian border.

U.S. spokesmen said the UH1 chopper apparently was on a trooplift operation in the vast swampy region 35 miles west of Saigon when it was brought down late Thursday. They said the aircraft was destroyed, and there were no reports of any survivors.

It was the 2,878th helicopter reported lost in the war.

U.S. headquarters also reported 17 enemy shelling attacks from 8 a.m. Thursday to 8 a.m. today. The command said eight U.S. bases and installations were hit, and 20 Americans were wounded, but no Americans were killed.

Meanwhile, American and South Vietnamese troops and American observation planes were searching a wooded area along the Cambodian frontier for 70 Vietnamese who reportedly wanted to surrender to the Saigon government after crossing the border during the night.

The report of the defectors came from a hamlet chief and filtered up through Vietnamese military channels, causing some confusion in the process. At one time it was reported that the 70 had already turned themselves over to American infantrymen and that 200 more were to follow.

Later spokesmen for the U.S. 25th Infantry Division said that part of the report was incorrect. "We are assuming that they are out there and are operating on that assumption," said a staff officer of the division's 1st Brigade at Tay Ninh, about 10 miles northeast of the border.

It was not known whether the group was made up of Viet Cong soldiers or civilian supporters.

The water situation is better, according to Mayor Frank Douglas, but it is still necessary for the citizens of Hope to use water sparingly on lawns and plants. The wells fill up at night, but are still low in the daytime. At present, there is enough pressure for fire protection, but there is the danger of lowering the pressure.

Funds Cut May Speed Evacuation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The New White House-ordered slash in defense spending may speed reduction in the size of U.S. military forces, Pentagon sources indicate.

These sources also suggested a continued slowdown in Vietnam fighting could help the Nixon administration cut spending for ammunition, B52 bomber missions and other war-related purposes.

President Nixon has directed federal agencies to come up with further spending reductions totaling $3.5 billion, and Budget Bureau officials forecast the Pentagon will absorb more than half the amount.

Defense authorities, who earlier pared $1.7 billion from the Johnson administration's $79 billion farewell military budget, anticipated the new White House order and had been searching for places to cut deeper.

"We're going to have to squeeze hard on personnel," said one official.

New U.S. withdrawals from Vietnam, expected late this summer and fall, probably will be translated into total force levels well below the 3.45 million men projected in the budget now before Congress.

The first troop pullouts from Vietnam, now under way, will result in a 15,000-man drop in over-all Army strength and save about $150 million a year.

For each additional man cut from the military rolls, the Pentagon figures to save about $10,000 a year.

Looking beyond the war, defense leaders have been thinking of lowering U.S. armed strength gradually to around 2.6 million men, thus reaping a savings of $1 billion a year.

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, standing erect and looking stern-faced, pleaded guilty in this island resort village today to a charge of leaving the scene of a fatal auto accident. He was given a suspended two-month jail sentence and placed on probation for a year.

The senator promptly told newsmen that he was seeking network radio and television time tonight "to explain to the people of Massachusetts." He did not say what that explanation would include.

Kennedy comes up for reelection next year. He is assistant majority leader in the Senate and widely regarded as prime 1972 Democratic presidential material.

Kennedy's lawyers said the 37-year-old senator refused to defend himself and insisted on pleading guilty to the leaving-the-scene charge, even though they said they had "legal defense" they could have used in his behalf. A year's probation is required in cases such as Kennedy's under Massachusetts law.

Officials couldn't say initially what the conditions of the probation would be in this instance. They said these would be up to Mrs. Helen Tyra, the woman in charge of the local probation office.

WHDH-TV in Boston, the station originating tonight's telecast of the senator's statement, said the statement would be 10-12 minutes long.

Kennedy was to appear on radio and television at 7:30 p.m. (EDT) from his home on Cape Cod.

His arraignment was in a courtroom in which the majority of spectators were some 50 newsmen. They were from all parts of the country and representing newspapers as far away as Japan. Outside the courtroom were 50 photographers and television cameramen.

Kennedy was the driver of a car that plunged off a narrow bridge and into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island last Friday night. A pretty blonde secretary from Washington drowned.

Kennedy stood at the rail as Teller read the words of the complaint, the State's charge that "Edward M. Kennedy of Boston did go away after causing injury to Miss Mary Jo Kopechne without making known your name and registration number."

"How do you plead, guilty or not guilty?"

Kennedy replied in a low but steady voice, "Guilty."

Judge Boyle asked to hear some of the evidence and the prosecutor, Walter D. Steele, called the Edgartown Police Chief Dominick J. Arena.

NEW YORK (AP) — The American and National Broadcasting Co.s said today they planned to televise live Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's statement this evening on the fatal car accident he was involved in last week.

The Columbia Broadcasting System had not made known its plans by late morning.

The networks said the broadcast would begin at 7:30 p.m. EDT.

Old Count Dug Up on Sen. Kennedy

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who was involved in an auto accident last weekend in which a woman passenger in his car was killed, was convicted on traffic charges on four separate occasions in the late 1950's, court records here show.

Records of the Albemarle County Court disclose that Kennedy, while a law student at the University of Virginia, was first convicted of speeding in March 1957 and fined $15 and costs.

In June 1958 he was convicted of reckless driving and fined $35 and costs. On a separate conviction that same month for speeding he was fined $15 and costs.
